One Tiny Turtle During-Reading Activities. We read One Tiny Turtle one page at a time. After reading each page, we engaged in an activity that stimulated my students' thinking about the material. The book begins: Far, far out to sea, land is only a memory, and empty sky touches the water.

The students also got to make their own tiny turtles. I drew a turtle shape for them to cut out. We went on a rock hunt outside to find just the right rocks for the turtle shells. Students then got to design and paint their shells. One turtle has a bottle cap for the shell. But we liked the way the rocks turned out better.
