Ti Amo Lyrics:
Ti amo / God, how I love you so / My heart just won't let go / Day after day I'm still holding on / Even though you're gone / Ti amo / Wasn't I good to you? / I did all that I

"Jeg elsker deg. Vi sier det til hverandre hele tiden. Vi sier det, i stedet for å si noe annet. Hva skulle det andre ha vært? Du: Jeg holder på å do. Vi: Ikke gå fra meg. Jeg: Jeg vet ikke hva jeg skal gjøre. Før: Jeg vet ikke hva jeg skal gjøre uten deg. Når du ikke er her mer. Nå: Jeg vet ikke hva jeg skal gjøre med disse dagene, denne tiden, hvor døden er det mest synlige i alle ting. Jeg elsker deg. Du sier det om natten når du våkner av smertene eller mellom to drømmer og strekker armen ut etter meg. Jeg sier det til deg når jeg finner skallen din som er blitt liten og rund i hånda mi nå som håret ditt nesten er borte, når jeg stryker deg litt for å forsøke å få deg til å snu deg så du slutter å snorke. Jeg elsker deg."
Høsten 2018 får mannen hennes en alvorlig kreftdiagnose. Det er ikke lenge siden hun flyttet til Italia for å leve sammen med ham der. De har giftet seg, de elsker hverandre, de er så nære. Hun vet at han skal dø, legene har sagt det til henne, men vet han det egentlig selv? Døden er der hele tiden mellom dem, men er blitt noe de ikke kan snakke om. "Ti amo" er en roman skrevet tett på virkeligheten. Det er en opprivende, skakende og om røman, en roman om sorg, om ensomheten døden skaper, men også om dyp kjærlighet og om å åpne seg og ta livet til seg.

A penetrating study of passion, suffering, and loss from one of Norway's most tenacious writers: National Book Award Finalist and PEN translation prize winner Hanne Ørstavik Celebrated throughout the world for her candor and sensitivity to the rhythms of language, Hanne Ørstavik is a leading light on the international stage. Ørstavik writes with ia compulsion for truth that feels like [her] very life force itself.ⓘ Laced with a tingling frankness, Ørstavik's prose adheres so closely to the inner workings of its narrator's mind as to nearly undo itself. In Martin Aitken's translation, Ørstavik's piercing story sings. Ti Amo brings a new, deeply personal approach, as the novel is based in Ørstavik's own experience of losing her Italian husband to cancer. By facing loss directly, she includes readers in an experience that many face in isolation. Written and set in the early months of 2020, its themes of loss and suffering are particularly well suited for a time of international mourning. What can be found within a gaze? What lies inside a painting or behind a handful of repeated words? These are the questions that haunt our unnamed narrator as she tends to her husband, stricken with cancer, in the final months of his life. She examines the elements of their life together: their Vietnamese rose-colored folding table where they eat their meals, each of the New Year's Eves they've shared, their friendships, and their most intimate exchanges. With everything in flux, she searches for the facets that will remain.

In this book, we have hand-picked the most sophisticated, unanticipated, absorbing (if not at times crackpot!), original and musing book reviews of "Ti Amo." Don't say we didn't warn you: these reviews are known to shock with their unconventionality or intimacy. Some may be startled by their biting sincerity; others may be spellbound by their unbridled flights of fantasy. Don't buy this book if: 1. You don't have nerves of steel. 2. You expect to get pregnant in the next five minutes. 3. You've heard it all.

Bright, cheerful "Ti amo" (I love you) notebook, journal, composition book, diary. Purples and blues featuring a delightful whimsical bird. 6X9, 75 lined pages.

The day Alessandra Rossi was born, her mamma died, and a loveless life with the father who blamed the newborn for her mother's death followed. With the help of her oldest brother, Rafaèle, Alessa moved away from home the moment she finished school—just like her other siblings had. Now sporting a degree in architectural history and archaeology, Alessa loves her job as a tour guide in the city of Rome—a place where she never fails to draw the attention of men. Not that Alessa cares. Fearing that the man she weds would be anything like her recently deceased father has Alessa vowing to remain single. American missionary Michael Young has moved to Rome on a two-year mission trip. His temporary future in the country doesn't stop him from spontaneously joining Alessa's tour after spotting her outside the Colosseum. And being bold enough to tell her afterward that one day she'd be his wife. God had told him. And he believed Him. But Alessa shows no sign of interest in Michael. Can anything sway the beautiful and headstrong Italian to fall in love? Can anyone convince her to put her faith and hope in the Heavenly Father, despite being raised by an earthly one who never loved her? Will her sister's prompting, or a mysterious painting, or Michael himself change Alessa's mind? About love. And about God.

This is more than an anthology of love poems. It is a compilation of the many facets of love and depicts one womanas journey in search of it. The true essence of this work is the birth of an awakening soul.

For the first time ever, the "surfing" is revealed in this book: it is the concept of new sexuality, a behavioral attitude that will amaze you .The two parallel stories of two girls from completely opposite realities intersect and develop on the same passenger ship where they work. In this environment events will take place that reveal the most hidden secrets of life on board, experienced by the officers and by the crew. In the background the plans of an efficient dark web group are revealed, which will involve the intelligence agencies, a compelling and emotional story, in which the concept of love is twisted by intense passions and cultural dogmas and in which the morality of family and friends is deepened where obscure intrigues are camouflaged with the purity of an affection that is nothing else if not convenience. Roy Cruise is the pseudonym of the author who, still today, is in service as an undercover agent, member of a special anti-terrorist group that operates on cruise ships to prevent and protect passengers. Roy is a Captain, and has been working for more than forty years at sea, twenty of them on passenger ships, and tells us terrible truths by analyzing human soul and behavior, revealing secrets and mysteries unknown to most. His books are inspired by the events experienced on his own skin and, despite being the fruit of his imagination, do not exclude situations and facts that really happened, as well as the characters described. The book "Surfing" is the first in a series of five stories, which explain the real background of both the intelligence of various countries, and the "gentlemen" of the dark web, up to tell the hidden secrets of the naval industry, in particular the life of the crew on passenger ships full of secrets not accessible to those who are not employees.
